To Be 'Very Serious.'

ANOTHER IS KILLED AT CARTERSVILLE

Virgil McClure Dies as Car Hits Soft Spot in Road; Many Are Killed in Southern Crashes.

One Atlanta man was killed in an automobile accident near Cartersville yesterday and another severely burned attempting to rescue a companion from a burning car in a wreck near Lumber City, Ga. Six other Atlantans were injured in the two accidents.

Walter Hinson, 671 Katherine street, was perhaps fatally burned when the car in which he and three other Atlantans were riding overturned and burst into flames on the Brunswick highway near Lumber City.

Hinson and three companions, Pierce Whitley, 688 Mayland avenue; James Asker, 970 Katherine drive, S. W., and Martin Shatzer, of an Elbert street address, were on their way to Brunswick for a fishing trip, relatives said. Hinson was said to be driving.

Only one of the four able to give details of the accident last night, said he and his companions were riding toward Brunswick when an approaching car sideswiped them and threw them into a ditch, where the car turned over and caught fire. Hinson was reported to have been badly burned when he crawled back into the car to save Whitley, who he thought had been pinned in.

Hinson was reported in a "very serious" condition at Piedmont hospital last night. Whitley was burned from the knee down, but his condition was said to be not critical. Shatzer and Asker were taken to their homes after treatment at Hazlehurst.

Virgil McClure, 28, of 901 Hall place, S. W., was instantly killed in a smash-up early yesterday morning on the Chattanooga highway one mile north of Cartersville. Injured in the same accident were George Thacker, 1019 Tilden avenue; Ralph Knight, 1075 Longley avenue, and Aubrey Kimble, of 994 Longley avenue.

Thacker suffered a broken leg and severe lacerations. Attached at Grady hospital, where he was taken, said his condition was not serious. Knight and Kimble, taken to a private hospital, were reported in a "fair" condition.

HOLC Sets Deadline For State at April 18

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—To assure meeting the June 13 deadline on Home Owners Loan Corporation lending, the corporation today set individual closing dates for each state and has designated April 18 as the last day Georgians may file applications with HOLC attorneys.

Deadline for states include: April 9—Virginia, West Virginia, Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Texas (Dallas and Houston divisions). April 16—District of Columbia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas (San Antonio division).

Official of Red Cross Stresses Relief Need

A new note of urgency has been sounded for flood relief funds by the National Red Cross in a letter received by Phil C. McDuffie, chairman of the local committee. The letter, sent from Washington by James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations, points out that continuance of Red Cross relief work is dependent on the prompt receipt of the $3,000,000 estimated as necessary.

Citing that the situation had grown worse instead of better during the past few days, Mr. Fieser advised that conservative estimates place the number of men, women and children dependent on Red Cross relief at 270,000. He says.

REINSTATEMENT OF HAGOOD HINTED

Ousted Army Leader May Be Given Command of Governor's Island Post.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(UP)—Major General Johnson Hagood, shunted into military exile for criticizing expenditures of WPA "stage money" before a congressional committee, will be re-installed by the administration and given a new post soon, it was reported reliably tonight.

Hagood, according to the reports, may be assigned to command the second corps area at Governor's Island, N. Y., replacing Major General Dennis E. Nolan, who is due to retire April 30.

War Department officials and members in both houses of congress who protested vigorously when Hagood was stripped of command of the eighth corps area, declined comment on the reported decision of the administration to pardon the blunt-spoken army officer.

The announcement of the change, it was reported, may come in routine orders from the War Department. There have been reports that unless he was reinstated, Hagood would resign from the army and seek the presidency of the Southern Railway, a company which he has been close friends of the President, in the coming elections. Byrnes, who is the chief of Hagood at the War Department, has discounted these reports.

The cry that went up throughout the nation that Hagood's punishment was a violation of the right of freedom of speech worried many New Dealers. Republicans denounced the act as another move toward a "dictatorship" and called for a "dictator" to make it a paramount political issue. Hanging over the entire incident was the threat that Hagood would be thrust into the role of a "martyr" and the administration would have on its hands another "Billy Mitchell case." The late Brigadier General William Mitchell was court-martialed for publicly criticizing the army air corps.

9 STATE BUREAUS USING 1935 CASH WILL ADD TO DRAIN

General Fund Dwindles to $240,000, Although Income Tax Payments
May Aid Dictatorship.

Nine divisions of the state government so far have drawn no funds under Governor Talmadge's court-harassed financial dictatorship.

All of them have been using cash left over from 1935 revenue, but this is almost gone.

The latest figures on the general fund, from which money is drawn for governmental operations—other than specific allocations—showed it had dwindled to approximately $240,000.

Income Taxes to Aid. However, by the end of the month, the treasury is expected to get around $1,000,000 in income taxes to bolster the general fund.

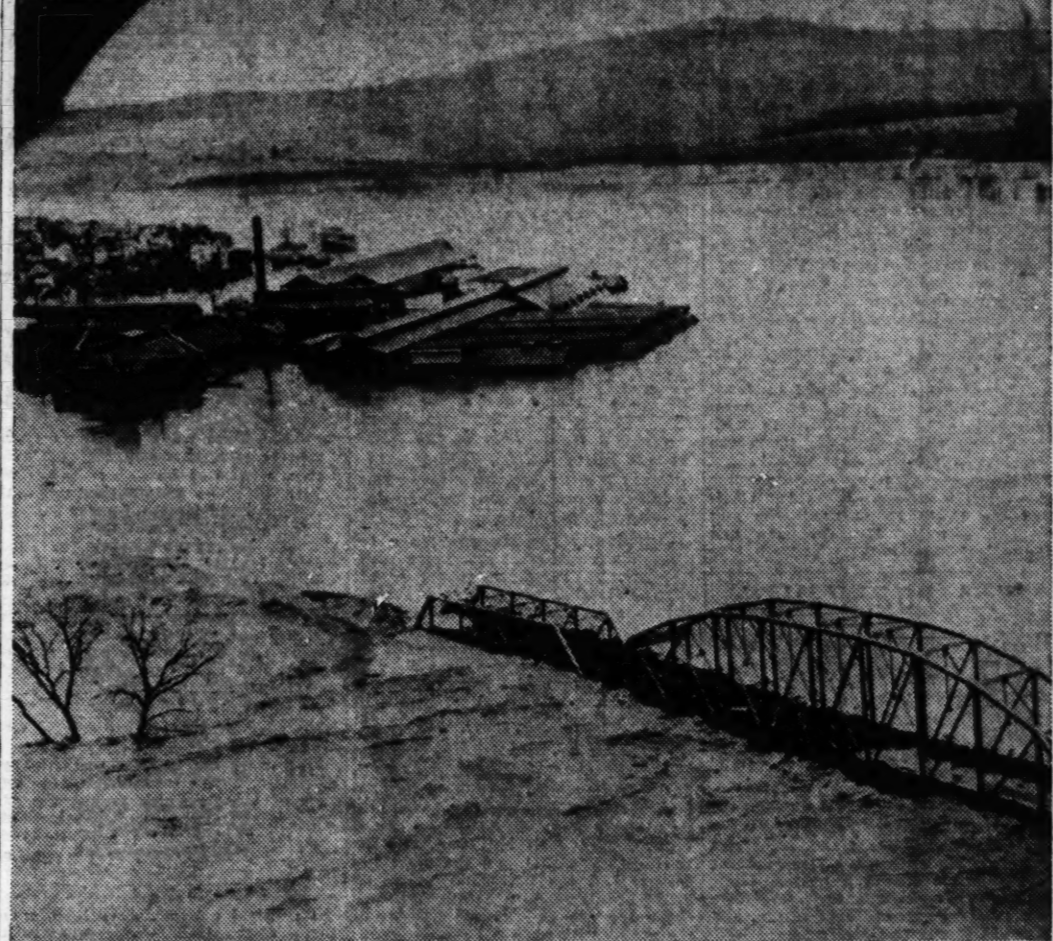

Under the budget act the various state agencies have their year's supply of money divided up into quarters, and draw it on that basis.

The divisions which have withdrawn no 1936 revenue and the amount they may get for the first quarter, follow:

Forestry and geological development ..... $10,400
Department of audits ..... 13,500
Department of state ..... 6,400
Department of entomology ..... 10,400
Revenue commission, delinquent tax division ..... 18,000
Milledgeville prison farm ..... 18,500
Tallapoosa county prison farm ..... 2,700
Public service commission, utilities division ..... 14,500
Income tax division of revenue commission ..... 17,000
Total ..... $110,000

Observers said there is no question but that the forestry department merely is waiting the need of the money and not holding up for any other reason.

F. D. R. ISEN ROUTE TO WINTER PARK

Gen. Hagood Will Board
Train; Roosevelt Won't
Stop at Warm Springs.

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO FLORIDA COAST, March 22.—(AP)—Satisfied that the flood peaks have passed and relief forces are fully organized, President Roosevelt traveled southward tonight for his postponed vacation fishing cruise off the Florida coast.

After leaving Washington by another check of the situation on the eastern seaboard and middle west where overflowing rivers had thrice delayed his trip.

A small crowd was on hand as he boarded a waiting special train at 1 o'clock for the southern trip.

Word of the President's departure for the south spread quickly along the route of his special train and soon after leaving Washington increasing crowds appeared at the stations.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt appeared on the platform of their car at South Rocky Mount, N. C., where a huge crowd was assembled late in the day.

Material Progress Noted in U. S. Banks

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—In his annual report to congress, Dr. F. O. Connor, comptroller of the currency, today noted a "material improvement" in the banking situation as reflected in periodic statements of condition.

The report, covering the period ended last October 31, said only five national banks had failed since inauguration of federal deposit insurance January 1, 1934.

These five institutions had deposits of only $5,440,000, compared with a peak of $88 national banks which suspended operations in 1933, involving deposits of $781,679,000.

In his "suggestions for legislation," O'Connor asked congress to "clarify" an existing law whereby national banks may declare dividends only semi-annually.

HITLER SAYS REICH WILL HOLD RHINE

Moscow Surveys Locarno
Situation, Decides To Build a Bigger Army.

By the Associated Press. Adolf Hitler, apparently replying to a four-power proposal for settlement of the dispute which arose out of his denunciation of the Locarno treaty and remilitarization of the Rhineland, declared Sunday: "We will not capitulate."

Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium had demanded Hitler's acceptance of an international force in a zone in the Rhineland, 12 1/2 miles wide.

"Germany is neither ready or willing," Hitler declared at Breslau, "to recognize the demands of other nations which touch upon the reich's internal affairs."

The authoritative soviet writer, Karl Radek, said in the government newspaper Izvestia that the "approchement" indicated between the four Locarno signatories might aid peace.

Hitler flew to Breslau to make the address after conferring until late last night and again today with Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Progress of Floods Along Major Rivers

By the Associated Press. OHIO VALLEY—Kentucky and West Virginia tributaries pour fresh floodwaters into Ohio river, sending it on a renewed rampage through lower valley. Hundreds flee as crest moves toward Portsmouth, which is protected by flood walls.

NEW ENGLAND—Floods recede, leaving Hartford, Conn., and numerous other communities virtually paralyzed. Hartford establishes 9 o'clock curfew in stricken section.

PENNSYLVANIA—Rivers rise again at Pittsburgh, following blizzard, but no further damage expected. Electric power still off. Disease and fire dangers acute. National guardsmen police Pittsburgh and other Pennsylvania towns.

Although Borah has not endorsed the Townsend old-age pension plan, he is the only republican candidate who "even approaches" the standard set up by his followers, Townsend said.

He dismissed the present democratic administration, with a few notable exceptions, as unacceptably and unfriendly to the cause he believes would bring permanent prosperity to America.

Townsend said his organization would make no effort to endorse a slate of congressional candidates at the forthcoming primaries and general election but he emphasized that if the issue of old-age pensions was brought before the voters, he would support it.

Townsend coupled his report with an announcement that third party petitions would be circulated in every state to enlist "approximately 14,000,000 people," as a show of strength.

But all this was swept aside tonight when Townsend told this writer he would back Borah against the republican field and President Roosevelt.

"Borah has not come out straight for our plan," Townsend explained, "but he has moved farther toward it than any other candidate of either party. He has repeatedly said on the radio that he would support me."

RIVERS RISE AGAIN IN PENNSYLVANIA; DEATH LIST AT 178

Pittsburgh, Scarcely Beginning To Recover
From Last Week's Submergence, Is Threatened Anew by Snowfall.

RELIEF AGENCIES WORK FEVERISHLY

Bridge Over Mighty Mississippi in Northern Wisconsin, Is Torn Away as Snows Increase Flow.

By the Associated Press. The lower Ohio river valley braced itself today against the anti-climatic shock of the Pennsylvania flood, while far up in Wisconsin the mightier Mississippi rumbled another warning heard all the way to the Gulf of Mexico.

As swollen rivers receded on the narrower coastal plains to the east, the Ohio swamped a dozen towns in its name state and Kentucky. Its "Queen City"—Cincinnati—looked anxiously on rising waters already three feet above its flood danger level.

The Mississippi, awaiting its annual bath of melting snow, tore away a bridge in northern Wisconsin. Ice jams were ready to melt and move down.

Search of debris unearthed bodies which brought the death total in 13 states to 178. Warm, bright weather aided the work of recuperation, but sightseers, seeing the Sabbath holiday as the first chance to view the desolation, hampered the relief agencies in every section.

Relief agencies in 12 states were called into a conference in Washington Monday afternoon upon means of speeding reclamation and preventing the annual spring flood threats in future.

The Ohio river was celebrating the third anniversary of its last disastrous flood. Wrightsville and Stout, west of Portsmouth, Ohio, were submerged, their 240 inhabitants isolated. Manchester, Ripley and Ironton were hit. Cincinnati, 60,000 people, and dozens of other cities were threatened.

Portsmouth, Ohio, mobilized its CCC, WPA and American Legion forces for an emergency, strenuous battle, betting that its 60-foot flood wall would be high enough.

Back upstream Pittsburgh's food administration has pronounced safe to drink the widening stream of filtered drinking water were pumped into reservoirs.

British Canon Turns On King in Rhine Issue

LIVERPOOL, March 22.—(AP)—Branding certain phases of the Locarno peace proposals monstrous and unjustifiable, Canon A. E. Davey, of Liverpool cathedral, made a point tonight of not asking the congregation of 2,000 to offer prayer for the British king and ministers of state.

"We are not able in our customary manner to commend the proposals of our ministers of state unto the blessings of Almighty God," he said. "To continue the enforcement of a spirit of inequality upon Germany is a proposal unworthy of our creed and our country."

BACHELORS URGED TO FLEE CITIES

Heavy Female Population in Towns Shown in Leap Year Survey.

URBANA, Ill., March 22.—(P)—Tara ploughboy for the season and spend leap year on the farm was Professor E. T. Hiller's advice today to bachelors who want to stay that way during 1936.

The leap year chase is most strenuous in the city, the sociologist said, because there are a couple of unmarried women for every unmarried urban male.

The ratio holds for all cities, the University of Illinois professor declared in reporting on a survey of "organization of population."

Women form the greatest part of the population in communities under 100,000, the report asserted, but even in suburban and country areas "women seek the urban and men the rural part of each zone," he explained.

"The city has a higher ratio of unmarried women than the farm does, because the farm can dispense with its women more readily than with its men."

All cities follow the same pattern, Professor Hiller said. The population curve always swings downward for a certain distance from the community center, and then swings back up again. The similarity extends to population per square mile, ratio of growth or decline, proportion of aged persons, division of sexes, ratio of native to foreign born, and even to land values.

Families with children like to live in rural areas next to the city, the report showed; elderly folks are concentrated in villages.

MARKER IS DEDICATED AT OLD EMORY CHURCH

Alumnus, Faculty Hear Dr. Brittain, Bishop Candler at Oxford.

OXFORD, Ga., March 22.—A bronze historical marker was dedicated today at the old Emory church here to Bishop Warren A. Candler, Dr. M. L. Brittain and George W. W. Stone, grandson of Bishop Capers, who dedicated the building in 1841, making the principal address.

About 300 Emory faculty members, alumnus and citizens of Covington, Atlanta and Oxford heard Bishop Candler give a short history of the building and declare "there is no pulpit in the state which has exerted a wider influence through the last century."

Dean George S. Roach, presiding, introduced the three speakers. Dr. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, spoke of college life here from the time he was welcomed to the campus by the President, Bishop Atticus Haygood, until his graduation in 1898.

Bishop Candler recalled the old days and named many illustrious ministers, educators and statesmen who have spoken from the platform. Mr. Stone, who was a classmate of Bishop Candler, gave a short history of the changes in the construction of the building.

After the exercises in the auditorium, the audience assembled in front of the building, where the tablet was presented by Mrs. R. M. Mobley, of Covington, and accepted by Dean Roach in behalf of the faculty.

Misses Caroline and Francis Candler, granddaughters of Bishop Candler, unveiled the marker, which bears the legend:

"Old Emory church. Dedicated by Bishop Capers, 1841. Used as Confederate hospital from 1862 to 1864. Wings and stage added by Bishop Haygood in 1878. Restored in 1902 by Bishop Candler. This is Works Progress Administration, 1936."

The memorial was made possible through the efforts of the Dr. A. K. and the U. D. C. of Covington, Oxford, and Dr. Brittain, who had the tablet made by WPA at Tech.

WHITE PLAINS, Ga., March 22.—(P)—William A. Purks, 77, who was superintendent of the Greene County schools for the past 28 years, died at his home here early today.

He is survived by one daughter, Miss Sallie Purks, member of the Greensboro (Ga.) school faculty, and son, Dr. Paul Purks, of Natch, Tenn.; three sisters, the Misses Annie and Lizzie Purks and Mrs. Kitto Smith, of Greensboro, and two brothers, James E. Purks, of Madison, and Edward Purks, of Cedarhurst.

Funeral services were set for 11 a. m. Monday at the White Plains Methodist church. Burial will be here.

GEORGIA PLANT TOLD TO DEAL WITH UNION
WASHINGTON, March 22.—(P)—The labor relations board ordered the Brunswick (Ga.) plant of the Atlantic Refining Company today to entertain collective bargaining proposals of Local 510 and 318, International Association of Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers of America.

The board said the company had refused to accept the local's bargaining units for all its employees, despite membership in the locals of more than 100 of the 123 production employees at the plant.

The board found that the company operated in interstate commerce and that the Brunswick plant was subject to the Wagner labor relations act authorizing unions representing a majority of a company or plant's employees to act for all employees in collective bargaining for hours of work and wages.

TWO NEGROES SOUGHT IN JEFFERSON SLAYING
JEFFERSON, Ga., March 22.—(P)—With six bullet wounds in his body, a man listed as Joe Culpepper, 35, white farmer, was dead today as officers pressed a search for two negroes, wanted in connection with the slaying. Four other negroes were lodged in the county jail here last night by Sheriff R. M. Culbertson after a roadside shooting in which the farmer was killed and two companions, Raymond Culpepper, 22, his brother; and Ernest Sorrells, 24, were wounded slightly.

Advised that the two negroes were seeking had been seen in the vicinity of Hoochton, Sheriff Culbertson took up the search there.

COMMITTEE PUBLISHES ANTI-ROOSEVELT ADS
NEW YORK, March 22.—(P)—Vance Muse, of Houston, Texas, said in a radio interview today that the Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution is "just trying to put a democrat in the White House" and is opening a national advertising campaign "in behalf of constitutional government."

Muse, an aid of John Henry Kirby, Tex. wealthy Tex. lumberman who founded the committee two years ago, said that "if the republicans nominate the right man there's no telling what it may happen down south."

The committee is publishing its first advertisement with funds given by "an individual donor." The advertisement asserts Roosevelt has ignored the constitutional oath and evaded his party's platform.

Describes Meaning of Christian Discipleship

REV. W. H. CLARK.

Christianity Religion of Inner Man, Rev. W. H. Clark Says in Sermon

Editor's Note—This is the first in a series of articles dealing with Atlanta pastors and their services. Additional articles will appear on succeeding Mondays.

Christianity is a religion of the inner man, the Rev. W. H. Clark, pastor of St. John Methodist church, said yesterday in his sermon on "The Meaning of Christian Discipleship," based on the question, "Am I a Christian?"

He said, in part:

Many of the deeper concerns of life are regarded all too superficially in this our day. We are thinking just now of the avowal made by so many and uttered so lightly, "Yes, I am a Christian." Alignment with the church has been made so easy and so popular that multitudes have come into its ranks with small conception of the profession thus made. It is a growing emphasis upon the mass life rather than the individual has no doubt brought many to feel that they share the life and high privileges of the group without sounding the genuineness of their own positions.

Down at Antioch in the first century the followers of the Man from Nazareth were first called Christians. There was a reason for this new name. Some of the Jews of that day sensed the fact that these earnest followers of the "new way" had stepped out beyond and above the dead levels of their own religion. Paul, who declared that he was "A Hebrew of the Hebrews," saw something here that meant far more than his old faith had brought to him. These men had caught the spirit of their leader, the Christ, and were manifesting in such marvelous way the same spirit that was His that the application of "Christian" to them was a spontaneous and true characterization.

The word Christian etymologically, of course, means partaking of the nature of Christ, which is but the experimental fulfillment of John's word, "As many as received Him to them gave He power to become the sons of God."

Christian Discipleship.
Christianity has always been a religion distinctively of the inner man. Again we quote Paul, saying, "I live and yet not I, for Christ liveth in me."

me." The true believer is thus dominated by the spirit of Christ, old things passing away and all things becoming new through this re-creation of the Son of God. The high marks of this life are humility, righteousness and unselfishness. No man who has entered through the gateway of repentance into fellowship with Christ can ever boast of anything save divine mercy! Godliness and sacrificial living are the normal fruits of a "life hid with Christ in God."

Christian Aspirations.
Christ being the same "yesterday, today and forever," the motives, affections and aspirations of the Christian are the same through every age and generation of man. The same principles of truth must find application in human relationships and in the life of service by each generation of Christians for itself. Perhaps, outward fidelity to Christian teaching was easier under the simple conditions of the first century than under the complex order of this 20th century. But now, as then, obedience to the indwelling spirit, and unselfish devotion to His great redemptive program are the infallible marks of true discipleship. They died for their faith and only as we are willing to live that the printed word will become a living corporate in the world's life today are we worthy to bear the name they bore.

ARMY PILOT KILLED BY CRASH IN GALE

Attempts To Land for Half Hour, Motor Falters and Ship Plummets.

NEW YORK, March 22.—(P)—Captain Samuel P. Mills, 42, United States army air corps pilot, was killed today when his plane crashed at Fort Slocum on a return flight from Boston to Bolling field, Washington.

The plane, its motor faltering, shuddered back and forth above New Rochelle for half an hour as though the pilot were attempting to overcome motor trouble and land. A 60-mile gale swept the metropolitan area.

Sweeping down toward the Fort Slocum parade ground, the craft struck a corner of Raymond Hall, recreation center, with one wing, overturned and plunged to the ground in a mass of tangled wreckage. The pilot's body was found in the plane, a parachute with it but not strapped on.

Colonel William O. Ryan, commander of Bolling field, confirmed the identification. Captain Mills was born in Vermont.

MISS ROSA BRADFORD PASSES AT RESIDENCE

Miss Rosa Bradford, a partner in the Buser Hat Company, had cleaning business, died yesterday in her apartment above the establishment at 115-1-2 Whitehall street. She was 66 years of age.

Miss Bradford, a long-time resident of Atlanta, operated the business with her brother, Robert S. Bradford.

Besides her brother, three other brothers, W. D. Bradford, of Atlanta; Richard W. Bradford, of Jacksonville, and James S. Bradford, of West Palm Beach, and a sister, Mrs. J. D. Patterson, of East Point, survive.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Awtry & Lowndes.

SUNDAY THRONGS SEE MAN COMMIT SUICIDE

Rubin C. Parker Uses Neighbor's Gun; Death Ascribed to Money Worries.

A few minutes after he had allegedly broken into a neighbor's house and taken a 12-gauge shotgun, Rubin C. Parker, 34, of 639 Bankhead avenue, shot and killed himself on the front porch steps of his home shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday. Many horrified Sunday strollers witnessed the act.

Parker, an employee of a motor company here, was said to have been dependent over financial matters. In his pockets were found two letters from his wife, who was said to be in the West.

threatening suits over past due bills. Louise Williams, of 662 Bankhead avenue, who saw the shooting, told police Parker placed the shotgun on the ground, stepped up on the porch steps and pulled the trigger with his thumb. The load of shot entered his right side and passed out through his chest. Doctors pronounced him dead when they arrived.

Two men told officers they saw Parker enter a house occupied by Alf Parker, at 701 Julian street, and take the shotgun with which he killed himself. He loaded it as he was walking toward his home, officers were told.

A small daughter, playing in the back yard of the Parker home, rounded the corner of the house a moment after her father had shot himself, witnesses said.

Parker is survived by his wife; three daughters, Mary Alice, Nannie Reed and Kathleen, and his father, A. B. Parker, of Canton. Arrangements will be announced by the West Side Funeral Home.

GREENWAY DECLARES SHE'S NOT A CANDIDATE

Politically Powerful Arizona Representative Has 'Other Responsibilities.'

TUCSON, Ariz., March 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Isabella Greenway told the Arizona Daily Star today she will not be a candidate for re-election as a member of the house of representatives. She assigned as her only reason "various other responsibilities which demand more of my time."

Mrs. Greenway is completing her first full term, having been elected the first time to fill the unexpired term of Lewis W. Douglas when he resigned to become director of the budget.

Her announcement came as a surprise to many democratic leaders. Mrs. Greenway owns and operates several large ranches in Arizona and New Mexico and a winter resort hotel here. She is identified with important mining interests. Whether it is to devote time to these or some unannounced project that she is resigning, friends here could not say tonight.

Mrs. Greenway possessed formidable political strength in Arizona years before she went to Washington. As national committeewoman four years ago she was responsible for the state's sending, for the first time in history, an instructed delegation to the national democratic convention in Chicago.

After she spoke briefly to the state convention it directed its delegates to vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mrs. Greenway seconded his nomination at Chicago.

A friend of the Roosevelt family, she was a bridesmaid at the Roosevelt wedding.

She did not let her friendship interfere with her congressional activities. With veterans' relief one of her hobbies she stood against the President in the soldiers' bonus fight.

A native of Boone county, Kentucky, she attended school in New York. There, at the age of 19, she married Robert Ferguson. He died in 1922.

In November, 1923, she married John C. Greenway, mining engineer, and close friend of her first husband. He died in New York.

Together, Mr. and Mrs. Greenway developed the new Cornelia surface copper mine and the town of Ajo, Ariz., called "the most beautiful mining town of the west."

Arizona's only representative in the lower house of congress, Mrs. Greenway is known in this state as "Arizona's sweetheart."

'Sweetheart' Won't Run

REP. ISABELLA GREENWAY.

GREENWAY EXPLAINS REASONS FOR DECISION

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—Representative Isabella Greenway, democrat of Arizona, announced tonight she would retire from office at the end of her present term.

"I'm head of my family and our interests are very scattered and right exacting," she explained. "It's just the matter of a family and a great many things I must give more time to."

Reminded she had been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor of Arizona this fall, Mrs. Greenway said her announcement of retirement, made public first in Tucson, also was intended to head off further talk along that line.

"Just because I am leaving office does not mean that I am looking forward to a continued active interest in national and state welfare," Mrs. Greenway continued.

"I'm proud too to have been alive with the courageous experiments of this administration, many of which I feel will be continued on their merits."

POLIO CLAIMS NEW VICTIM. PIKEVILLE, Ky., March 22.—(AP)—A spinal meningitis outbreak which caused County Health Officer Dr. C. P. Shields to close schools, courts, churches and other public gatherings yesterday killed its third victim, an 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Brien here.

dismissing the suit of organized labor seeking to prevent De Facto Treasurer Daniel from paying out any funds without an appropriations bill.

Judge Wyatt said the decision would be handed down "in a few days." The Governor expects the ruling to be favorable.

The "dictatorship" was both attacked and defended in arguments of attorneys on the demurrer.

Falmidge's appeal from a three-judge Fulton superior court order tying up $2,500,000 in Atlanta banks and holding the court had jurisdiction to deliver into the hands of the state treasurer, as well as decide who is legal treasurer, is now in the state supreme court.

HITLER VOWS GERMANY WILL NOT CAPITULATE

von Ribbentrop, who headed the German delegation at a session of the council of the League of Nations in London last week.

A foreign office spokesman said a final decision had not been made tonight on what his answer to the powers would be nor has it been determined when von Ribbentrop would return to London.

There were indications, however, that the special ambassador might fly back tomorrow afternoon with a plan of action in his brief case. The longer Nazi leaders discuss the Locarno proposals the more it becomes evident that their greatest underlying worry is the British undertaking to come to the aid of France and Belgium if negotiations with Germany fail.

Hitler said at Breslau: "Nothing has happened in Germany in the last three years which is directed against any particular people nor which threatens any one."

A new order must be created, he continued, based on reason and logic. But whoever thinks that the treaty of Versailles can stand as a basis of this order is mistaken.

RUSSIANS DETERMINED TO STRENGTHEN ARMY. MOSCOW, March 22.—(AP)—After close observation of discussion on the Rhineland situation, the Soviet union remains convinced its principal guarantee of safety is its own capacity for defense, Karl Radek, authoritative writer, said today in the official newspaper Izvestia.

Russia, he announced, will continue to strengthen its armed forces, already numbering 1,300,000 men. This policy, Radek said, will be adhered to as long as the other powers cannot or do not wish to adopt measures for the increase of security.

He described commitments of the four Locarno powers in regard to future action as "so uncertain that they can be discounted as not existing at all."

Analyzing the London agreements, however, he conceded: "It is necessary to note that the powers, though preparing to negotiate with Germany, have also decided on a rapprochement with one another. This contact (between Britain, France, Italy and Belgium) will tend toward strengthening peace if it is made to appear resolute and if the powers look not only toward the Rhine but also toward other centers of war danger."

FLANDIN EXPLAINS SITUATION TO U. S. PARIS, March 22.—(UP)—A startling account of the war peril escaped by Europe because of French and Belgian moderation in the face of Germany's military reconquest of the Rhineland, was told today by Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin in a radio speech broadcast to the United States.

"France and Belgium reacted with remarkable moderation to the Rhineland violation," he said. France might have mobilized. France might have taken coercive measures. France might have reoccupied the Rhineland herself—by force.

"But," Flandin said, "France preferred to pin her faith to the inherent strength of international law and the League of Nations."

"France kept calm," he said, "because she was sure of her strength and certain that her cause was right. Flandin appealed for the understanding of the American people, saying:

"It is not enough to assert one's will for peace, as Chancellor Hitler does. One should also prove through one's action. France does not threaten nations. She wishes peace for all people. This peace can be founded only on justice. Upon invoking this principle I am sure to meet with the approval of the American people."

Dealing with proposals agreed upon by the Locarno powers, Flandin said: "How does this bear on the future? If Germany accepts them, negotiations will be opened."

"If Germany rejects the proposals now made to her it has been provided for by an exchange of letters from Great Britain and Italy on one side and France and Belgium on the other."

New Court Attire Decried by Edward

LONDON, March 22.—(AP)—Court officials are staggered by a new edict issued by King Edward VIII, sweeping away a rule which existed since the early days of Queen Victoria's reign.

His majesty has decided that the black knee-length frockcoats worn by high officials of the royal household when "in attendance" are no longer to be formal dress at court. Cutaway tails—or morning coats will be worn in the future.

Even a short black lounge vest such as worn by an office or store clerk has been approved by the king for ordinary wear at Buckingham palace, although the tailcoat is held essential on formal occasions unless uniform is ordered.

HAGOOD TO CONFER WITH ROOSEVELT. CHARLESTON, S. C., March 22.—(UP)—Major General Johnson Hagood, stripped of his command of the eighth corps area for criticism of WPA "stage money," tonight said he had heard nothing of rumors he would be reinstated.

Hagood will board the Presidential special here at 11 p. m. to accompany Mr. Roosevelt's train to Richmond, Va., but the plans were revised when conferences on flood relief delayed Mr. Roosevelt's departure for the south.

Hagood said that reports he might be appointed to succeed Major General Dennis E. Nolan as commander of the second corps area at Governor's Island, N. Y., were "news" to him.

"I have heard nothing to that effect," Hagood said. "Even after my conference with the President tomorrow morning, I don't expect to have anything to say."

"Any statement with bearing on the conference would have to come from the President or the War Department."

Hagood expects to ride the Presidential special into Florida, leaving it to return to his Charleston home after the conference.

Since ordered to proceed home and await orders, Hagood has maintained rigid silence.

One radio car was manned by two of the department's best marksmen, Officers M. D. Cartwright and H. G. Brice. Detectives D. Taylor and Douglas Poole, of the homicide squad, aided by sleuths from other squads, also in Eastern city.

In the search, indicated that the killer was preparing to resume his sniping despite the widespread police hunt.

Radio patrolmen assigned to adjoining districts were ordered to devote as much of their time as possible to patrol of the adjacent section.

The madman fled after shooting wildly at Arnold's mother and sister. Officers were walking down the street. Panic-stricken spectators gave only a sketchy description of the man.

Detectives Taylor and Poole said a negro woman was wounded by the sniper and that a number of others, including white persons, had been fired on.

The officers said residents of the neighborhood reported seeing the fleeing figures of a negro after pot shots had been taken at pedestrians. Most of them said the sniper was carrying a rifle.

TELEPHONE BURGLARS RAID FILLING STATIONS

Burglars solved the problem of obtaining money from telephone pay stations by removing the telephones, box and all, from two gas-line stations, it was reported to police yesterday.

Roy W. Allen, operator of a station at 437 East Fair street, and J. W. Leitch, operator of a station at 260 Flat Shoals avenue, both reported finding the telephones had been pulled from walls.

In each robbery, entrance was gained through rear windows.

FRANK B. FLAHERTY DIES IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP)—Frank B. Flaherty, former publisher of the New York Herald, the Evening Telegram and the Paris New York Herald, died today of heart disease at the age of 67.

Flaherty entered the employ of James Gordon Bennett as an office boy at the age of 14 and rose to the position of publisher of Bennett's three newspapers. When Frank A. Minney bought the Bennett papers in 1921, Flaherty entered the real estate business in Forest Hills, L. I.

ECONOMIC WEAKNESS OF FARMER REVEALED

Analysis Based on Survey of Families Made in October, 1933.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—Farm families on relief were described by Harry L. Hopkins today as "more vulnerable to economic disaster . . . principally because they were larger families with less employment and smaller incomes."

Hopkins' analysis was based on a survey of rural families on relief in October, 1933.

FERA investigators checked the records of 5,800 relief families and of the 11,600 nearest neighbors who were not on the dole to prepare the report. Forty-seven counties typical of the situation in varying regions were selected in Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Utah and Wisconsin.

In addition to farmers employed by WPA, the Resettlement Administration is seeking to rehabilitate about 471,000 rural families. The report warned that the results could not be applied in detail to entire sections of the country.

"That many of the rural families not on relief were almost as badly off as the others," it added, "is not surprising."

AAA benefit payments, it added, "usually, although not always, benefited the rural families. The bulk of the relief cases," while "the heads of relief families came from poorly paid occupations such as farm laboring, sharecropping, unskilled industrial work, to a greater degree than did the heads of non-relief families."

PRESIDENTIAL PARTY EN ROUTE TO FLORIDA

Mrs. Roosevelt plans to remain in Florida a few days.

With a bright sun warming the roads and the waters of the nearby Florida Bay, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt left the White House shortly after noon. They ate dinner aboard train.

Hagood to Join. Before departing, Mr. Roosevelt extended an invitation through the War Department to Major General Johnson Hagood to talk things over tonight on the journey south.

After leaving Washington, it was arranged for General Hagood to board the President's train at Charleston, S. C., late tonight. He will be received tomorrow by Mr. Roosevelt for their talk. The general was relieved from command of the eighth corps area after he had referred to WPA funds as "stage money" in testifying before a house committee.

Because of the three days' postponement on his departure as a result of the flood crisis, the President eliminated a scheduled one-day visit at the War Department. He plans to go there for a day on his return in a couple of weeks.

At sea, Mr. Roosevelt aboard the Potomac will be accompanied by two destroyers and through wireless he will be kept constantly in touch with national and international developments.

Temporary White House headquarters will be established at Miami by Marvin H. McIntyre, a secretary, and T. E. Early, an executive secretary, will be in charge at the White House executive office.

This is the fourth successive year Roosevelt has gone fishing. It is the first time off he has taken from his duties as chief executive since his last fishing trip to Warm Springs.

James Roosevelt, eldest son, joins the presidential fishing party in Florida. Other members of the Potomac fishing group are Frederick C. Deane, an uncle, and three mates of last fall's cruise—Captain Edwin Brown, U. S. N., and Colonel Edwin M. Watson, U. S. A., military aides; and Captain Ross T. McIntire, U. S. N., White House physician.

H. M. Kanner, Robert Barrows, Dorothy Jones and John H. Cook, of the White House secretarial staff, will be in the Miami temporary headquarters. Miss Grace Tully, the President's personal secretary, also is making the trip.

WOMAN BADLY BURNED BY HOT WATER BOTTLE

Scalded about the body when the hot water bottle she had in her bed burst, 61-year-old Mrs. Lizzie Cramer, of 578 Formwalt street, was in a serious condition at Grady hospital last night.

Cramer was scalded about the hips by the boiling water in the bottle. Hospital attaches reported.

Vivian Walden, 12, was treated at Grady yesterday for superficial burns of the right thigh, said to have been received when her clothing caught fire at her home, 363 Walden street. Members of the family extinguished the flames.

SPANISH LEADER SHOT. MADRID, March 22.—(UP)—Police and civil guards were mobilized tonight at Oviedo after Alfredo Martinez, 61-year-old Spanish leader, a liberal democrat, was shot, gravely wounded. Fearing further acts of violence the police and civil guards undertook strict police patrols in Oviedo.

Committee Named To Investigate U. S. Administrative Machinery

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—Appointing a committee of three to investigate the government's administrative machinery, President Roosevelt today requested co-operation of the special senate "economy" committee headed by Senator Byrd, democrat, Virginia.

The White House, announcing the President's committee, shortly after Mr. Roosevelt departed for the south, also made public a suggestion of the executive for creation of a committee similar to the Byrd groups by the house of representatives.

Louis Brownlow, of Washington, director of the public administration clearing house, was named chairman of the President's committee. Other members are Luther Gulick, New York director of the Institute of Public Administration, and Charles E. Merriam, professor of political science at the University of Chicago.

Both Brownlow and Gulick were announced last week as advisors for the Byrd committee, which has been given $50,000 to conduct an investigation of useless and overlapping agencies in the government.

The White House announcement said the President's committee was created to "make a careful study of the relation of the emergency agencies to the regular organizations of the executive branch of the government."

It was said the group would serve as an adjunct of the national emergency council, which will provide office facilities "and such personnel as the committee may require."

In letters to Vice President Garner and Speaker Byrns, dated March 20, Mr. Roosevelt said that he began holding conversations last October "with interested and informed persons concerning what appeared to me as the necessity of making a careful study of the organization of the executive branch of the government."

He added that of new agencies created "during the emergency" some, with recovery, "will be dropped or greatly curtailed, while others, in or out of the emergency, will have to be fitted into the permanent organization of the executive branch."

Mr. Roosevelt said he felt it was necessary "also to study as carefully as may be the existing regular organization." He said he carried on conversations along this line in November and December, and then determined to appoint the committee named today to assist him in making such a study, with the primary purpose of considering the problem of administrative management.

The President, in the two letters, requested co-operation of the special senate committee, and the group he suggested the house appoint, "in order that duplication of effort in the task of research may be avoided and to the end that it may be as fruitful as possible."

In addition to appointing its five advisors, the Byrd committee has engaged the Brookings Institution to outline its inquiry.

Engagements of Comptroller General J. R. McCall, whose term expires next June, to aid in the investigation have been proposed to the Byrd group. McCall has criticized some expenditures of the present administration.

Because of the three days' postponement on his departure as a result of the flood crisis, the President eliminated a scheduled one-day visit at the War Department. He plans to go there for a day on his return in a couple of weeks.

At sea, Mr. Roosevelt aboard the Potomac will be accompanied by two destroyers and through wireless he will be kept constantly in touch with national and international developments.

Burial will be in Batavia, N. Y. H. M. Patterson & Son in charge of arrangements.

BURGLARS ACTIVE OVER WEEK-END

Visitors Robbed in Down Town Hotel Room; Theft of Goer's Coat.

Several persons were the victims of thieves over the week-end, according to reports made to police yesterday.

Miss Imogene Hughes, of Van Wert, Ohio, reported that a burglar entered her room in a downtown hotel and as she and a companion, Mrs. W. P. Day, of Columbus, Ohio, slept, stole $35 in cash, a watch valued at $125 and a purse valued at $15.

Two negroes beat N. P. Waters, of 310 Grant Park place, and robbed him of $2.60 early yesterday morning as he was walking on Conally street, near Georgia avenue, he told police.

Theft of an overcoat valued at $50 from a downtown motion picture theater was reported to police yesterday by W. J. Edwards, of 2900 Peachtree road.

As he slept, burglars entered the bedroom of F. A. Bailey, 450 Piedmont avenue, and took $3.60 from his trousers pockets, he reported to detectives.

GALE RAKES NEW YORK. NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP)—A gale swept through the metropolis today, loosening signs and copings. Two men were injured. Observers in the Empire State building reported velocities of from 70 to 100 miles an hour. The weather bureau clocked it officially at 60 miles an hour.

Begin Today; Many Wives
To Attend.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—The "campaign class" for wives of democratic senators and representatives will open tomorrow with the new farm act and the background of the little pigs as the topic for lesson one.

At least 60 were reported to have signed up for the first lesson in the series suggested by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt so that they could reply to criticisms they were hearing on the New Deal.

The school also is in line with the suggestion of President Roosevelt in his Jackson Day dinner address that administration supporters inform themselves of its policies.

Mrs. Louise Lazell, who will be "teacher" of the classes at the Women's National Democratic Club, had prepared class material for only 50 for the first session, so she spent yesterday in assembling more.

Second Class Promised.

"No extras will be played under," promised Mrs. Lazell. "If they come in sufficient numbers, a second class will be organized."

While only wives attended the organization meeting, today's report was that daughters, sisters, and some secretaries were asking to join and would be permitted to come.

The congressional wives took seriously Mrs. Roosevelt's suggestion that they prepare questions in advance.

Some that they propounded to Mrs. Lazell:

"How many little pigs were actually killed, and why were they killed?"

"Why was food destroyed when people needed food?"

"Why is this question of soil erosion brought up?"

"Are the dust storms really caused by man?"

"Did the supreme court declare the payments to the farmers by the government illegal?"

"Will the farmers be paid not to grow crops under the new AAA?"

Mrs. Lazell wouldn't say which questions came from which congressional wives on the theory it wouldn't be good class policy.

She listed as weekly lesson topics which probably would follow closely upon the AAA class: work relief, both PWA and WPA; national housing needs; the budget and government spending.

The congressional wives who take the complete campaign course, if they aren't already seasoned campaigners, are expected to emerge at the end of it prepared to make a one, three, or five-minute speech.

World-Wide Briefs By Wire and Cable

SECURITY ACT CONFERENCE. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 22.—(AP)—Application of the federal social security act in Tennessee will be discussed by the Tennessee conference of social workers at their three-day convention, opening here tomorrow. Those listed to discuss the act at Monday's session include Dr. W. G. Williams, state commissioner of health; Mrs. Alice Read Saxby, Memphis probation officer; and Burgess Askew Jr., director of the Tennessee Welfare Commission.

SPANISH LEADER WOUNDED. OVIEDO, Spain, March 22.—(AP)—Dr. Alfredo Martinez, former minister of justice who is also a cabinet deputy in the Spanish parliament, was gravely wounded today by a man whom police identified as a leftist. The attack occurred near Martinez's home on the outskirts of this city.

RUSSIA FEARS FLOODS. MOSCOW, March 22.—(AP)—Heavy snowfalls in northern Russia led to fears tonight of serious spring floods. The snow accumulation on the northern Dvina and Sukhona rivers was the heaviest in 25 years. The level of the Volga, which traverses one of the soviet union's richest agricultural regions, was much higher than at this time last year.

NEW FLIGHTS VISUALIZED. LONDON, March 22.—(AP)—By airplane across the Atlantic in a few hours, via the "tropopause" level of the stratosphere, is visualized by Professor G. T. R. Hill, professor of engineering at London University.

HEART TROUBLE FEARED. SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—(AP)—New York city's recent elevator strike probably will take a serious toll for the next six months in heart damage by stair climbing, Dr. J. G. Gieger, San Francisco health director, predicted today. "I'd like to know what the statistics are showing there now," said Gieger.

SPANISH PILOT ARRESTED. BARRITZ, France, March 22.—(AP)—A Spanish airplane pilot, Captain Angel Ansaldo, was arrested today for bringing Spanish monarchist refugees into France without a permit.

BANDIT FLEES WITH $1,800. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22.—(AP)—A lone masked bandit, armed with a revolver, fled with $1,800 in cash here tonight after a daring holdup of a large chain cafeteria. His face covered with a handkerchief, the robber entered the Holsum cafeteria, pocketed the cash, and fled. The cashier, Miss Nancy Thomas, scooped up the accumulated receipts of Saturday and Sunday and fled.

init. Ansaldo, a royalist leader, was held after a succession of mysterious flights back and forth over the border aroused police suspicions.

SNOWSTORM IN IDAHO. SALT LAKE CITY, March 22.—(AP)—An eastbound snowstorm swept over this city today. Boise, Twin Falls, Pocatello and Idaho Falls in southern Idaho and the entire northern half of Utah received snow.

GRAIN BUYING AUTHORIZED. BUENOS AIRES, March 22.—(AP)—The government authorized the Argentine Grain Board today to buy any quantity of corn of the 1935-36 harvest at the new rate of five Argentine pesos a quintal, or 220 pounds. This is the equivalent of $1.65 a quintal at the exchange rate the government uses in taking foreign drafts. However, at the exchange rate paid importers the new price represents the equivalent of $1.60 for 220 pounds.

BASS DRUM RESCUED. NEW YORK, March 22.—(UP)—A police emergency squad clanged up to a Brooklyn subway station. Inside, Edward Harris' bass drum was wedged into a turnstile. Police dismantled the turnstile, and Harris hurried to play a dance.

BREAKS LEG IN 'POCKET.' NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 22.—(UP)—Louis Izenberg, Brooklyn, Mass., suffered a broken ankle 1,000 feet above New Haven today. An American Airlines plane on which he was a passenger, hit an airport and landed. The plane made an emergency landing so Izenberg could be taken to a hospital.

WINTRY SETTING FOUND. HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—(AP)—Film companies seeking wintry settings, and lay air can find them now at home, in the midst of Hollywood's palms and semi-tropical weather. A former ice refrigeration plant has been converted into a "wintry" sound stage, where nature's cold tricks may be reproduced artificially even on the warmest summer day.

TRIAL SET FOR TUESDAY. TAMPA, Fla., March 22.—(AP)—With prospective jurors ranging in occupation from corporation executives to day laborers, trial of three of the 11 defendants in the Joseph Shoemaker flogging death case has been set for Tuesday. With self-disqualification of one juror, Governor Dave Sholtz has assigned presiding duties to Judge Robert T. Dewell, of Polk county.

REPORT ON TAX BILL IS SEEN BY THURSDAY

Hearings To Begin March
30; Long Battle
Forecast.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—Congressional tax experts, trying to mold a $792,000,000 program without resorting to new processing levies, spoke today of winding up their deliberations and filing by Thursday a report on which the house ways and means committee can start open hearings.

Notices went out that hearings would get underway March 30 when a subcommittee agreed tentatively on a proposal for new corporation taxes which members believed would straighten out previous troublesome knicks.

The decision was to base the levy on total net income of corporations, as at present, but with rates determined by the percentage of earnings set aside for reserves. The new rates also would be graduated according to the amount of annual profits.

Adjournment Delay.

The equally controversial relief issue also moved up today to the starting line for a probably controversial journey through congress. Chairman Buchanan, democrat, Texas, arranged to assemble the house appropriations committee during the week to begin work on President Roosevelt's request for $1,500,000,000 to continue the Works Progress Administration after next June 30.

Because major fights apparently lay ahead of both taxes and relief, congressmen who had hoped to head home toward political fence-building by May 1, are now talking of getting away just ahead of the democratic national convention in June.

Consideration of the relief question may be complicated by the broad investigation of WPA proposed in a resolution by Senator Davis, republican, Pennsylvania.

While senate democratic leaders have indicated they will offer no serious opposition to the resolution, they quickly filled two democratic vacancies Friday on the expenditure committee, which will conduct the inquiry.

The committee consists of five democrats and two republicans. Senators Pittman, democrat, Nevada, and Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, both administration stalwarts, are the newest additions.

Minor snarls in the projected corporation tax remained to be untangled, but Representative Vinson, democrat, Kentucky, said he believed the subcommittee would be able to draft its report by Thursday.

Hearings on the tax legislation were expected generally to take a fortnight, the drafting of a bill a week, and house consideration the major share of another week.

Seeking to dispose of other legislation while awaiting the tax and relief measures, the senate was to bring up again tomorrow the $611,000,000 War Department appropriation bill, while the house worked on an appropriation for continuing work on the Florida ship canal was in prospect.

Following the army supply bill to the senate floor will be the agricultural appropriation measure.

The house planned to tackle its biggest job of the week Tuesday by returning to consideration of the Pettigill bill under which railroads in some cases might charge more for carrying freight to one destination than to another farther along the line.

DEPARTURE PICTURES FORBIDDEN BY F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt disappointed a score of news and motion picture photographers here today as he departed for his Florida vacation.

The group awaited his arrival at the special train for half an hour and had cameras all set. But as the President arrived, he called Marvin McIntyre, one of his secretaries.

"No pictures, boys," McIntyre told the cameramen. They obeyed.

OFFER OF HITLER PACT IS DENIED BY AUSTRIA

Schuschnigg Discusses No negotiations Between Italy and Hungary.

ROME, March 22.—(AP)—Austria has not received an offer of a non-aggression pact from Germany, despite Adolf Hitler's reported willingness to take this step, Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg said today.

In an interview the Austrian leader also discussed negotiations now under way here between Austria, Italy and Hungary. They have agreed to sign a new treaty strengthening accords reached here in 1934, another source disclosed.

Schuschnigg said acceptance of Hitler's substitute Locarno peace proposals, involving a pact with Austria, rests with other powers but he emphatically stated. Austria would have to be an active member of negotiations for any pact including her.

At the same time members of his entourage expressed great skepticism over Hitler's offer. On the same day it was made, they asserted, two attaches of the German legation in Vienna were arrested on charges of subversive activity in Austria.

With reference to his Rome visit, Schuschnigg said the Italo-Austro-Hungarian protocol was spreading and would include other countries, particularly Czechoslovakia.

"The Rome protocols have been in effect for two years," he said. "As the late Chancellor Dollfus said, they have no political purpose but are a point of departure for a vast reform of economic relations with all states which feel the need of augmenting their mutual cooperation."

"If extension of the accords in this or that direction has not been possible, it is not the fault of the accords but of the political situation in Europe, today perhaps more than ever. It is natural to conclude that for similar economic accords there must be a lessening of political tension."

He said there are now three elements of co-operation among the three countries: political, economic and financial.

3 DANUBIAN NATIONS TO SIGN PACT TODAY

ROME, March 22.—(AP)—Tri-power conversations between Italy, Austria and Hungary, which have been in progress since the accords were signed today with accords which sources close to the conferees said would strengthen and prolong the agreements reached in 1934.

A communique issued after the talks by Premier Mussolini, Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, of Austria, and Premier Julius Goemboes, of Hungary, said:

"The Italo-Austro-Hungarian conversations were continued this afternoon at the Palazzo Venezia, where accords were reached which will be signed tomorrow."

Although the communique did not state the nature of the agreement, informed sources said it involved no military obligations but strengthened the existing protocols between the three countries.

This source said the agreement contained no statement on the question of inviting other Danubian countries to enter the accords.

Sources close to the Italian delegates said constitution of a kind of permanent committee to maintain constant contact among the three nations for a study of problems of common interest would be announced.

FUTURE VETS DARE OLD ONES ON BONUS

They Declare Payment to Them Now as Loyal as
V. F. W. Demand.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 22.—(AP)—The Veterans of Future Wars, who ask a $1,000 prepaid bonus now for the services they will render the nation in future battles, today challenged their critics, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, to debate with them the justice of the bonus-before-we-fight demand.

The suggested subject for the debate was: "Resolved, that the bonus demand of the Veterans of Future Wars is as reasonable as the recent bonus bill of the World War veterans, and that the request of the Veterans of Future Wars should be granted before the government awards any other gratuities to another veteran group."

The challenge was addressed to Commander James E. Van Zandt, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who has been caught in denouncing the Veterans of Future Wars.

HEAVY DUST STORM HITS WESTERN STATES

KANSAS CITY, March 22.—(AP)—March winds flung dust over wide patches of the west today.

California, Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, New Mexico and Nebraska were among states reporting the storms.

Winds that at times rose to 49 miles an hour cast a dusty haze over Los Angeles and blew high silt clouds across the Imperial valley.

Southwestern Kansas, in the nation's "bread basket," experienced its most severe dust storm of the year. The storm was more than 12 hours long at Liberal, Kan., near the Oklahoma line. Some communities suspended church services.

The storm in Kansas extended along a 250-mile route, being reported as far east as Wichita. Most points said, however, the dust did not begin to compare in severity with that of 1934 and 1935. Some wheat damage was noted.

High-Speed Living Taxes Digestion

THE RUSH HOUR... when tired nerves tighten and tempers rise. It's just a part of this strenuous life that often sends us to the table in no shape to enjoy food. Camels have the pleasant effect, during and after meals, of aiding and promoting digestion.

Smoking Camels
a positive beneficial effect upon Digestion...

Our modern "eat-and-run" way of living is hard on digestion. Experiences with indigestion are all too common! Hence unusual interest attaches to the following fact: that smoking Camels has been found to have a marked beneficial effect in aiding digestive action. You'll find Camels milder too, more delicate in flavor, packed with the rich enjoyment of choice tobaccos.

Turn to Camels for digestion's sake...for the pleasure to be found in Camel's costlier tobaccos.

Camels set you right!

OTIS BARTON, daring scientist-inventor of the "bathysphere," says diving tests physical condition—especially digestion. "Camels," he adds, "make my food taste better and help it to digest."

A SENSATION! Henry Taft Snowdon, '34, intercollegiate wrestling champion, says: "Smoking Camels after meals and between meals aids digestion."

LESTER STOEFFEN, former U.S. Doubles Champion, says: "Camels help food to digest easier. Eating at odd hours and places all over the country, I smoke Camels for digestion's sake."

MEET JOE MOSS
famous impresario of New York's glamorous Hollywood Restaurant

"CAMELS ARE A FAVORITE here," says Mr. Joe Moss, who presides over New York's Hollywood Restaurant (above). "As I look at the crowd, I see Camels on many tables. The fact that Camel uses costlier tobaccos and people prefer Camels shows that they appreciate the best."

Patty Berg Thrills Big Crowd With Great 77 at East Lake

She is cuter than a speckled pup. I refer to Miss Patty Berg, the left halfback from Minneapolis.

She stepped out on the old course at East Lake Sunday morning and had a nice 77, which is two under women's par. It was her first look at the course and she was tired.

Before Miss Patty Berg took up golf she played a fine game at left halfback on a boys' football team at Minneapolis. She could carry that football and she was especially good at throwing a forward pass.

The average girl, in the act of throwing a baseball or a football, looks exactly like a girl throwing. It is probably the most awkward action in the world. But Miss Berg could fade back and let that football go with a lot of zing, straight into the arms of the waiting end who went on for the touchdown.

And yet she is completely feminine.

She is sturdily built. Her blue eyes look out of a frank, Irish face which is the proud possessor of at least 3,000 freckles. Her hair is red. She is all of five feet and two inches tall. She is 18 years old but when you see her on the green, eyeing the putt with a quizzical eye, you'd swear she was not more than 14.

She looks like a child. That is, she does until she takes that wide, square stance, sets herself firmly and squints her eyes for the last look at the pin.

And then you are a bit startled. Because you see the power that is in that compact, sturdy little girl. And you notice that her shoulders are broad and strong. And you note the hands on the club and see they are a great pair of hands.

She winds up, the swing a bit flat, and the ball gets up and goes.

She gets great distance. Yesterday she was never more than a yard or so behind the drives of Crawford Rainwater, Berrien Moore Jr. and Cliff Ely. Now and then she was out in front of one of them. Crawford Rainwater has twice qualified for the national amateur. Once Berrien Moore qualified for the national. Yesterday Rainwater was but two strokes better than this girl-child from Minneapolis.

THE CURTIS CUP TEAM.

She is the young lady who sails within a few days for England to play with the American cup team in the Curtis cup matches.

It's great to be young—and a star. It is impossible to pick up a golf magazine now without seeing at least one or two pictures of the freckled-face and the compact little girl who has become the best-known of the feminine golf stars. At 18 they are saying she may become the greatest American woman golfer when she grows up to her game.

Hardly a sports page of a newspaper in the past few weeks has put out an issue that did not have some mention of Patty Berg's golf. She went through the Florida tournaments in spectacular style.

All this at 18—with an international match ahead—at an age when most young ladies are excited about the current movie hero or the next dance.

She is a direct, unspoiled person. And her parents are trying to keep her so.

But I wondered what went on under that red hair and behind those freckles when she posed for pictures with a half-dozen cameras clicking and the movie cameras purring. Or what she thought when she looked into the expensive, slick-paper magazines and saw her own face smiling out.

All that at just 18 years of age is rather tremendous. Older heads than hers have been ruined by such things. But she said it didn't bother her. It was nice but it didn't help sink putts or keep the swing even. She was sticking to the main issue—which was learning to play good golf.

MR. HUDSON RECALLS.

Mr. Scott Hudson, who has seen them come and go through all the years of the Atlanta Athletic Club, watched Patty Berg play.

"She's 18 years old," he mused. "She looks exactly like Alexa Sterling did when she was 18—same swing, style and power."

It was just another confirmation of the general idea about Patty Berg. She is tagged to have that freckled face smiling

Girl Star Dazzles Atlanta Golf Fans

feated the sensational Minneapolis star and Moore, 4-2, as Rainwater sank long putts to take four holes with birdies. Patty carded a fine 77, which ranks with three of the best rounds ever turned in by women players on the No. 1 course.

Only Joyce Wethered, the celebrated English, star and Alexa Stirling, Atlanta girl, who formerly won the national championship have surpassed Patty's play. It was Dazzling Patty's first appearance here. Staff photo by Turner Hiers.

Patty Berg's Brother Displays No Jealousy

Fourteen-Year-Old 'Red' Is Promising Golfer Himself; Putts Well.

By Betty Mathis.

"Golly, she did right well, didn't she?" That was the remark of young "Red" Berg, 14-year-old red-headed, freckled-faced brother of Pat Berg, the Curtis cup player from Minneapolis, when he learned that his sister had shot a 39 on the first nine holes at East Lake yesterday.

There were about 400 people who went out to the golf course to see Pat play in a foursome with Berrien Moore Jr. against Crawford Rainwater and Clifford Ely. But no one noticed the curly-headed young man who was playing alone just behind his sister's party.

Red is an ardent admirer of Pat. Not the least bit jealous because the daughter in the family has the spotlight. He thinks she is a great golfer and a grand girl to have for a sister. He loves to talk about her and to watch her play.

Red was playing No. 11. That fairway parallel No. 12 where Patty was teeing off. Red stopped playing when he saw her and turned around and waved to her and grinned. Pat waved back, addressed her ball and sent it a good 200 yards toward the green. "That was a honey," Red exclaimed.

WON'T TURN PRO.

"I don't think Pat will ever turn pro," he declared. "She plays golf for fun and I don't believe she will ever want to make her living that way."

Red is a tall boy for his age, but he has the poise of a young man. And he is by no means a bad golfer. He had a 42 on the front nine yesterday and improved considerably on the back nine.

He has been playing two years and has never taken a lesson. He hits the ball long and straight off the tee, but his short game needs improving. He putts almost as well as Patty, who had eight one-putts greens in 18 holes yesterday.

Neither Red or Pat had ever seen greens like those used in Atlanta, yet after the first hole both seemed to be perfectly at home on them.

KNOWS HIS GAME.

Young Mr. Berg is well grounded in all the facts about American golf and golfers. He was eager to know all about Bobby Jones' family. He knew his record as a golfer perfectly. He asked about Charlie Yates and was very anxious to see him play. He wondered about Alexa Sterling, who was before his time. He asked all about Dorothy Kirby's playing. "Where does she play? What was her best score? Who is her teacher? Why isn't she playing today?"

Patty's younger brother swallowed his gum when we imparted the information Dorothy Kirby played basketball and often engaged in rough-housing and football games with the opposite sex. "You don't mean it," he said. "Why Pat gave up football and all sports except ice and roller skating when she finally made up her mind to play serious golf. You couldn't get her to play any other game now. She'd be too afraid it

2,118 GOLF HERE IN SUNDAY PLAY

East Lake and Piedmont Show Increases Over Previous Marks.

Atlanta's golfers, not content with a record of 2,204 players set several Sundays ago, came back with two new records yesterday when East Lake and Piedmont park reported increases over previous marks.

East Lake recorded 236 players, in addition to the big crowd which followed every step of the exhibition of Patty Berg, Berrien Moore Jr., Cliff Ely and Crawford Rainwater.

Piedmont park, jammed all day, saw 365 players turn in receipts at the first tee for nine-hole rounds.

And a crowd of 2,118 over all the courses was only 96 shy of the combined record set several weeks ago.

In the weekly dog fight on the No. 2 course, two fourfours, Bill Carver, Keith Conway, W. H. Calhoun and W. P. Branch tied with Sam Reddick, J. J. Loneragan, L. E. Mock and A. N. Patton for first place with scores of 123.

Second place went to Russell Gill, Allen Yates, R. K. Whittier and Clyde Spinks, at 124, one stroke above the winners.

Third place was won by Pete Barnes, P. W. Crawford, F. R. Somers and Weldon Branch.

Other low scorers were J. B. McConnell, C. R. Wham, J. B. Stewart and L. F. Meng and B. B. Gay, Dan Yates, Stuart Murray and H. S. Roberts.

ANSLER PARK.

Gene Gillard and D. Lee Wicker, with a 71, took the lead Sunday afternoon in the qualifying round for Ansley Park's annual best ball tournament. The qualifying will continue through next Sunday, after which match play will start.

The players will be arranged in flights of 16 each and play will be in foursomes as was the qualifying.

CAPITAL CITY.

Charlie Dannals, with a 74, won individual scoring honor as more than 200 golfers played over the Capital City course Sunday. Other low scorers included Tom Shropshire, Charlie Black Jr., Dave Black, Harvey Hill, John Grant Jr., Henry Morgan and Carroll Latimer.

PIEDMONT PARK.

Piedmont park golfers set another new record for Sunday when 365 golfers packed and jammed the course all day long. A long line was waiting at the starting tee late in the afternoon and many did not get a chance to complete the nine-hole round.

Cousins with W. F. Darby, Georgia Copeland and his brother, J. T. Nichols, used a spoon to connect for the ace on the 200-foot No. 2 hole.

The course was crowded throughout the day, more than 100 rounds being played.

RED-HEADED GIRL AND MOORE LOSE IN EXHIBITION, 4-2

18-Year-Old Star Shows All-Round Excellence in Debut Here.

By Roy White.

Patty Berg, red-headed and freckled-faced young Minneapolis star, thrilled a crowd of more than 400 wild-eyed golf fans with a beautiful exhibition in carding a 77 Sunday on the No. 1 East Lake course. Patty paired with Berrien Moore Jr., city amateur champion, and lost a 4-to-2 decision to Cliff Ely and Crawford Rainwater, whose four birdies were important factors in the victory.

Patty's 77 is two strokes under women's par, according to prescribed measurements by the United States Golf Association, and her round ranks with the three greatest ever to be turned in by women players. It was surpassed only by those of Alex Stirling, former Atlanta, who later won the national championship, and Joyce Wethered, the celebrated English star.

The Minneapolis girl became the second woman golfer ever to break 80 on the No. 1 East Lake course the first time she played. Joyce Wethered is the only other member of the weaker sex to accomplish the feat in her initial trip around this course.

The 18-year-old sensation of the Florida tournaments was outstanding with her iron, short approaches and putting. Her 77 included only a couple of "gimmies" which were less than 12 inches while other members of the foursome were conceded putts of greater lengths.

STAR PUTTER.

Putting was Patty's long suit. She had eight one-putts greens, eight two-putters and two three-putts. And a majority of her two-putters were barely missed as they rimmed the cups. She was never short of the cup, a fault of thousands of golfers.

Starting with a disastrous six when she three-putted the first green on a grass that she has never seen before, Patty played safe on the next two holes and then began her great putting streak, canning a long one on the fourth for a par. She had an out of bound, but recovered with a great pitch to the green and a one-putt for a par on the long 365-yard fifth hole.

Patty barely missed a putt on the island for a birdie, and played the next three holes perfectly for a 30 and only three over men's par on the first nine.

Crawford Rainwater, medalist in the Georgia amateur last summer, carded birdies on the fourth and ninth holes to give his side a 2-up advantage on the outgoing nine, although his par 36 was equalled by Berrien Moore Jr.

After playing the 10th well with a one-putt after being in a sand trap on her second shot, Patty overdrove the short 11th and three-putted, for her second and last three-putt of the day.

STROKE SAVING.

One putt on both the 13th and 15th holes saved strokes for Patty, who ended her round with a well-earned birdie on the 365-yard 17th and a sizeable one-putt on the 18th, after her drive was beyond and to the left of the green.

Unaccustomed to the course and playing on a different grass from any she had ever seen, Patty's round was all the more remarkable. Her drives, a trifle short of the others, were for the most part well down the middle. Her iron was straight for the green and her deadly approaches were uncanny.

Rainwater, playing with a much shorter club than usual, had plenty of control on the ball and set the scoring pace with a 75. He was over par on only the third and sixth holes on the front side and the 12th, 14th, 16th and 18th, on the back nine. Moore picked up on the 16th and 17th, after having a fine first nine score of 36. Ely played one of his most consistent rounds and carded a 76, finishing up with a 37, one over par on the back nine.

ANOTHER BERG.

Following close behind the crowd was "Red" Berg, Patty's young brother, playing around all alone. He took his time, played several balls from difficult lies and had a good time in general.

Atlantans were not alone in the gallery for many new faces followed every step of the way. Miss Martha Danforth, wife of Mrs. Roy Burns, of Columbus, president of the Georgia Women's Golf Association, were among the crowd.

BERGS FEED.

Patty, her parents and young brother were guests at a luncheon at the East Lake club immediately following the match. They left the city late Sunday afternoon for their home in Minneapolis.

The young star has just completed a strenuous tournament schedule in Florida, where she defeated the cream of the women players, including Glenna Collet Vare, national champion. She is the youngest girl ever to be named on the Curtis cup team and will leave early in April for the Curtis matches in England.

Babe Didrickson To Invade Rome For Exhibition

Babe Didrickson, whose athletic ability won her the Olympics of 1932 and who has turned her activities to golf in a big way, and with effectiveness, will play an exhibition on the Coosa Country Club course, Rome, Ga., Tuesday, March 31.

The former Olympic star will play with Miss Martha Daniel, a director of the Georgia Women's Golf Association; Alvin Everett, the long-knocking Rome southpaw and Julius Hughes, former Atlanta open and amateur champion.

The Rome Service league is sponsoring the event for its charity fund and all the civic organizations of the city are squarely behind the movement.

ON TAKING IT.

"How much do you think you can take?" I asked the bomber.

He blinked a moment. "I think I could take plenty—if I had to," he said, "but I am not going to try and prove it. I wouldn't keep crowding in if I was afraid of getting hurt."

"What's the best form of defense," I asked him, "quick blocking hands, or head and body roll?"

"You first try to block 'em with your hands," he said. "If they get by your hands, you slip or duck with your head or roll with your body."

"You first try to block 'em with your hands," he said. "If they get by your hands, you slip or duck with your head or roll with your body."

"What makes a real punch?" I asked him.

Louis blinked again. "I guess it's a mixture of speed, timing, balance, weight and strength. I don't guess I quite know. You can't punch much off balance."

Little Cards 72, Bobby Jones 73 In Augusta Play

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 22.—(UP) Warming up for the 1936 Augusta Masters' tournament, Lawson Little Jr., American, and British amateur champion, toured the course today in even par 72.

The Californian, well on his game, was 1 stroke under Bobby Jones, one-time emperor of the golfing world.

In the 1935 tournament, Little's aggregate for four days' play was even par 284. Golfers here said he apparently was picking up this year where he left off last.

Teamed with Clifford Roberts, Augusta banker, Little defeated Jones and John Martin, editor of Time magazine.

Jones, Little and Jess Sweetzer, will be outstanding amateur contenders in the Masters' tournament which opens here April 2.

Little, after today's round, announced he will play a practice round daily until the tournament.

Gene Sarazen, winner of the Masters' last year, will be a favorite when the brilliant field tees off April 2.

ATHENS IS HOST TO GOLF MEETS

ATHENS, Ga., March 22.—The Athens Country Club's golf course, one of the best in the south, will be host to four golf tournaments this spring and summer.

College golfers from all parts of the country will assemble here on April 23 to play in a collegiate open meet, sponsored jointly by the University of Georgia and the local club.

April 30 the annual state high school meet will begin. Tech High, of Atlanta, is the defending champion. A tournament open only to members, in May, and an invitation meet, in June, will complete the summer's program.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS AS OHIO RIVER RISES

Damage in Upper Valley Is Set at $10,000,000; Farms Are Flooded.

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, March 22.—(AP)—The mighty Ohio river, on the third anniversary of its last disastrous flood, vent its fury again today on the rich agricultural lands of the lower Ohio valley.

Leaving property damage estimated at $10,000,000 and thousands homeless in the industrial upper valley, the raging muddy waters gathered fresh destructive force from overflowing tributaries in West Virginia and Kentucky.

The river rose slowly along a 130-mile stretch from Ironton to Cincinnati, driving hundreds of families from their homes and inundating the business and residential sections of numerous Ohio and Kentucky towns.

Flood waters submerged the villages of Wrightsville and Stout, west of here, cutting their 240 inhabitants from communication with the outside. At Manchester, farther west and midway between here and Cincinnati, at least 80 houses were flooded and a score of streets were under water. The campus of Alfred Elsbrough College there was inundated.

Waters Dropping. Rehabilitation was pushed and efforts made to prevent a spread of disease as the river fell steadily from East Liverpool to Gallipolis. The waters had dropped about 7 feet in 46 hours at Marietta, which was hard hit by the turbulent stream. The fall continued there at a rate of two-tenths of a foot an hour.

Portsmouth, protected by a three-mile concrete flood wall, watched the river climb an inch an hour and expected it to reach its crest at 60 feet by 5 p. m. Monday. WPA workers patrolled the wall, which would protect this city of 45,000 up to 92 feet.

The American Legion mobilized its members for an emergency, and Civilian Conservation Corps recruits poured into the city to lend a hand if needed.

Floods in the great Kanawha river near Point Pleasant, W. Va., and the Big Sandy river at Catlettsburg, Ky., accounted for the rise in the Ohio. The river approached a stationary stage above Point Pleasant, after wreaking property damage estimated at $10,000,000 in the upper valley.

Business Section Covered. The business section of Catlettsburg, 40 miles above here, was inundated by four to five feet of water. The river backed up a sewer system and flooded the central business district of Ironton, which had expected the river to reach its crest Saturday night.

Relief facilities at Ironton were doubled as it appeared 500 families would be made homeless. The national guard set up two more cooking units. All available trucks were mustered by the WPA to help move refugees' belongings.

The river stood at 58 feet at Ironton, and was expected to go to 60, two feet beyond the 1933 flood mark. Ironton is 30 miles up the river from here.

Below here, water poured into the business and residential districts of Manchester and Ripley, Ohio, and Augusta, Ky.; Buena Vista and New Richmond, Ohio, also were threatened. About 500 families were to move to higher ground within a 25-mile radius of New Richmond.

In the Cincinnati vicinity the river rose slowly and was expected to reach its crest at 50 feet, seven above flood stage, Monday night.

KENTUCKY THREATENED BY RISING OHIO

By the Associated Press.

The muddy waters of the Ohio river and tributaries spread across Kentucky lowlands Sunday, spreading destruction, threatening early and driving hundreds of families from their homes.

Highway travel in many sections was hindered as the flood waters backed up over the roads. At Greenup, Ky., most of the streets were flooded and the courts were surrounded by water. Circuit Judge Harvey Parker called off the court session slated for tomorrow and all schools were closed. Twenty families were forced to evacuate their homes by the rising waters.

Water service was limited to two hours daily. The river had reached 61.1 feet at dam No. 30 late Sunday afternoon and officials expected the crest by midnight.

Lowlands and surrounding Ashland were under water and 60 families forced to flee yesterday found refuge among neighbors and at welfare homes. The river, rising three-tenths of a foot every three hours, was reported at 62 feet Sunday night. A hundred families in Normal Flats and Millseat additions vacated their homes Sunday.

The main highway between Ashland and Catlettsburg was blocked by water and bus service between Ashland and Huntington and Ashland and Portsmouth and Columbus was halted. The Ashland-Kennett road was slowly being covered by the Ohio waters.

12 States Will Discuss Plans Today To Rebuild Flood-Ravaged Areas

Congressmen Will Also Press for Interstate Control, System of Dams on Small Tributaries; River Deepening and Widening Considered.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—Spurred to immediate action by the water destruction of life and millions of dollars in property, senators and representatives of 12 states will meet tomorrow and chart a program of relief, construction, and flood control.

The Maryland congressional delegation, one of the states which suffered heavy flood damage, took the lead in summoning legislators to the conference which was proposed by Representative Goldsborough, democrat, Maryland.

Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland and Tennessee will be represented at the session.

At the same time, other moves were made toward interstate action in the present emergency and in preventative programs. One of the conferences proposed for this week would include the governors of Maryland and West Virginia, heads of state roads departments and relief officials in charting a course for the rebuilding of bridges swept away by the Potomac river.

Increased rivers and harbors appropriations to permit deepening, widening and straightening of rivers and for new dam construction probably will figure largely in the discussions at the conference tomorrow. Meanwhile, the federal government is expanding its operations in the flood zones and a move is underway in both senate and house to obtain immediate allocation of flood relief funds.

West Virginia, in resolutions offered by Senator M. M. Neely, and Representative George W. Johnston, and Jennings Randolph, asked a total of $12,000,000 for relief work in that state. Governor George H. Earle, of Pennsylvania, requested $10,000,000 for relief work in that state. Senator E. T. Gurnea, of Maryland, and Representative David J. Lewis, democrat, Maryland, introduced legislation asking $5,000,000. Similar action was taken by representatives and senators from other states.

On the eve of the conference, two proposals for flood control were advanced. Goldsborough said army engineers advised him that if streams were deepened, widened and bended eliminated, the stream beds would flood. He suggested such a program to apply particularly to areas of dense population.

Randolph proposed for a program of "hit the floods at the source." He said funds should be made available for the building of dams in many small streams throughout the nation, so that the "floods" could be held back from the big rivers.

"Dams in the small streams are more important than those in large rivers for flood control," Randolph asserted.

He also renewed his plea to President Roosevelt for favorable action on the proposed Savage river dam in western Maryland, a project urged also by Maryland's senators, Representative Lewis and Senator Neely. Randolph said that the Savage river dam been in place, the disastrous floods in the Potomac valley area might have been prevented. Governor Harry W. Nice, of Maryland, called for a flood relief conference for Tuesday morning at Annapolis. Senators Tydings and Radcliffe will attend.

The house agreed to consider on April 6 three flood control bills offered by Randolph. They call for surveys and preliminary examinations by army engineers of the Cheat, Potomac and Greenbrier rivers.

The Massachusetts congressional delegation and senators in a conference reviewed discussed a program for rehabilitation in the flood-stricken areas of that state. Their discussions centered around the possibility of obtaining an emergency federal relief appropriation; federal assistance in highway and bridge building; enabling legislation to back up state plans for rehabilitation, and aid through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

guardsmen trudged through muddy streets to guard property which suffered damage estimated at $25,000,000 from the rampant Connecticut river.

The curfew order was applied by the flood relief committee to a three-quarter-mile belt from the railroad station east to the river, and embraced a district containing principal insurance and other buildings in this famous insurance center.

Eight thousand families were homeless. Half of these were being cared for by the Red Cross. The others moved in with relatives and friends who had suffered less.

Lighting service failed Friday. A barrier of guardsmen to prevent looting, permitted only food trucks and official cars to pass on principal highways into the city.

Supply trucks rumbled into town at the rate of one each 10 minutes throughout the night.

The river was dropping an inch an hour from its 37.5-foot crest of Saturday.

Governor Cross and Frederick C. Walcott, state welfare commissioner, who was an associate of Herbert Hoover in European World War relief, planned to go to Washington late tonight to ask Relief Administrator Hopkins for special WPA grants.

It was reported they would ask $5,000,000, at least, for rehabilitation work.

Although Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, state health commissioner, said public health conditions had been "excellent" in the flood area, physicians began inoculation of 2,500 WPA workers against typhoid as an extra precaution before they attacked the task of removing flood traces.

Among 64 state policemen patrolling the flooded area, only 20 were only two weeks out of training school. Liquor vendors were urged not to sell after 7 p. m. until the emergency had passed, lest free drinking cause additional tragedies at down bridges and shanty buildings.

Authorities announced that refugees would be barred from all flooded buildings and homes until each had been inspected and individually placed as safe for occupancy.

No Sign of Disease. Health authorities declared there was no sign of a disease epidemic. Serum is on hand in sufficient quantities to inoculate 400,000 people if there should be an outbreak of typhoid fever.

Relief funds rolled in from all parts of the country in response to Red Cross appeals. Officials announced there was no shortage of food, clothing or shelter for victims, but that more relief funds were needed. They estimated 58,000 persons were being cared for by the Red Cross in Pittsburgh, and 51,000 more in outlying parts of Allegheny county.

Schools will remain closed tomorrow.

NINE O'CLOCK CURFEW ORDERED IN HARTFORD. HARTFORD, Conn., March 22.—(AP)—A 9 o'clock curfew was imposed tonight on this lightless city of 105,000 as more than 1,000 national ling the wearing apparel on short, tall, slim, stout, young and middle-age types.

Be assured of a thoroughly entertaining program at The Constitution's spring garden school. And be assured, also, that the application of the latest scientific developments in modern gardening, which Mrs. Crown will bring to her audiences during the three-day school, will make your garden more beautiful this year than ever before.

Consider this as a personal and cordial invitation to attend The Constitution's spring garden school, which opens at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Atlanta Woman's Club. Classes will continue until 11:30 o'clock each morning during the three-day program.

Out-of-town garden enthusiasts will find a warm welcome awaiting them from The Constitution and from Atlanta men and women interested in beautiful Georgia cities the most beautiful in the country.

Officials announced there was no shortage of food, clothing or shelter for victims, but that more relief funds were needed. They estimated 58,000 persons were being cared for by the Red Cross in Pittsburgh, and 51,000 more in outlying parts of Allegheny county.

Schools will remain closed tomorrow.

floor of the senate that any movement of the people backed by the millions represented by this movement should have the most careful consideration of the legislators. We know he will give a sympathetic ear, and we feel he will lead our movement when the time comes.

Any followers who do not agree with him are free to remain democrats, he said.

"I am not advising one way or the other," he emphasized, "but I have changed my own registration to republican because I feel that we need look for nothing from the present administration. The democratic party seems determined to keep the country one-sided, which is not the best for all concerned."

Continuing in the same vein, he assured his supporters that there was no desire on his part to "regiment" them.

"Autocracy has ended for our movement," he said. "I want the millions of American people who follow the leadership of the movement to know that a pure democracy among the membership in our clubs is to control. If there has ever been within our official ranks any effort to regimentation, that day has ended."

"We are not going, either locally or nationally, to endorse any candidates for congress, by which I mean that we will have no official slate. Our local and regional and national leaders will not be permitted to make deals with any politicians. These leaders have better things to do than play politics. If there is a choice between two candidates our people will be urged to follow the man known to be favorable to our movement. Otherwise it will be a fair field."

AUDIE HUGHES RITES TO BE HELD HERE TODAY

Final rites for Audie B. Hughes, former southern newspaperman, who was killed last Wednesday in Pittsburgh when his automobile was swept off the road by flood waters, will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Harry G. Poole.

The Revs. George M. McLarty and J. M. Long will officiate and burial will be in Mount Zion cemetery. Hughes was 48 years of age and a member of the staff of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Before he left this section several years ago, he was employed on various southern newspapers.

Miss Margaret Woodside Weds Mr. Miller in Florida

The marriage of Miss Margaret Woodside and J. B. Hammer Miller, of Tallahassee, Fla., formerly of Tampa, was impressively solemnized on last Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the garden of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moor in the picturesque Los Robles section of Tallahassee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. N. Caldwell in the presence of relatives and a small group of friends. An aisle of azaleas formed the approach to the altar, which had for its background flowering dogwood trees and baskets filled with bridal wreaths.

Miss Caroline Oliver, of West Palm Beach, was maid of honor, and J. J. Parrish, Jr., of Titusville, Fla., was best man. The bride wore a gown of white flower girl, and wore a frill of pink sheer, the skirt being formed of pink ruffles.

Jack J. Woodside Jr., of Atlanta, the bride's only brother, gave her in marriage, and the blond beauty of the bride was accentuated by her white chiffon costume. She wore a becoming white hat and a nosegay of flowers, and wore a frill of pink sheer, the skirt being formed of pink ruffles.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Moor entertained at an exquisitely appointed dinner for the bride and groom and the wedding party. The reception table in the dining room was graced with a white and pink wedding cake embossed with pink roses and topped with a vase filled with pink roses and valley lilies. Silver candelabra held pink tapers and the other appointments were in pink and white. Lavender and pink stock and Easter lilies beautified the interior of the handsome Tampa, Fla. home.

The beautiful bride is the daughter of Mrs. Aline Gentry Woodside and a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Gentry, of Atlanta. She attended Washington Seminary and is a former secretary of the Sigma Delta Club. She also attended Ashley Hall in Charleston, S. C., where she was an important member of the Dramatic Club, and wrote some of the plays presented by the organization. Mrs. Miller completed her education at Oglethorpe University, and she was a popular and prominent member of the younger set of Atlanta society. Her father is John J. Woodside, of Atlanta, who is a granddaughter of Mrs. John J. Woodside. The late Sir John J. Woodside, her grandfather, was a baronet in County Antrim, in Ireland, before coming to the United States.

Mr. Miller is the son of Mrs. William Frederick Miller, and the late Mr. Miller of Tampa, Fla. He graduated in law from the University of Florida, belongs to the S. A. E. fraternity the Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity, and the Omega Kappa honorary fraternity. He is claim attorney for the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company, and is connected with the firm of Midway & Fox in Tallahassee, where he and his bride will reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller will reach Atlanta next Saturday to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Parrish Jr., who served as maid of honor and best man at their marriage. The bride and groom will be spending their honeymoon at a Florida beach resort.

Personality Lecture For Business Women

The second of the series of personality lectures sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club will be given this evening at 7:30 o'clock at 708 Grand Theater building. Miss Lauretta Fancher will discuss "Fear and How to Combat It."

These lectures are open not only to club members but to the business women of the city, given as a civic contribution during national business week, which was observed by 1,490 clubs of the national federation March 15-21.

As a result of the activities of the local club the following names were added to the roster: Mrs. Nora D. Smith, a former member of the Cincinnati club; Mrs. J. A. Bradshaw, Mrs. C. J. Edmondson, Miss Lillian Ruby Miller, Mrs. Pearl W. McClure, Mrs. Grace S. New, Miss Marie Peck, Miss Mary E. Phelps, Mrs. Martha Williams, Miss Leila Summerall, Mrs. R. H. Cassler and Mrs. Harriet Mae Judd. Mrs. Lilla Ellis will give her weekly book review and current events lecture at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

Houze, brother of the bride; Miss Evelyn Neal and P. W. Harris.

The bride wore a suit of powder blue, trimmed with dyed fox. Her accessories matched her costume and her flowers were chosen from spray of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs.

Spring Garden Notes

Mrs. Fletcher Pearson, Crown

As I visit from garden to garden, sometimes professionally, sometimes for pleasure, I am impressed by the lack of the use of vines. In small gardens especially we need screening, not only to give us privacy, but also to shut out unsightly views that are all too frequently seen on the rear premises of homes that are most attractive from the front view. We recommend shrubs for shutting out these views, and nothing could be lovelier than a massed shrub planting. At times, however, lack of space forbids the use of shrubs in this way; again lack of funds prevents this method of screening. Then, too, the question of time makes it necessary to use a quicker screen temporarily while waiting for the shrub border to grow sufficiently to serve its purpose. Persons living in rented houses do not feel inclined for these several reasons to use shrubs, and have found vines, both annual and perennial, satisfactory substitutes. We must not class vines always as substitutes for they have their own place in a planting, a place that can not be filled by anything else.

Pergolas and trellises would have no excuse to enter our gardens if there were no vines needing a support. We would feel a distinct loss not to have these forms of garden architecture with us, for properly used they would create much interest and beauty. I repeat, properly used. Never place a trellis nor a pergola without at least some reason for its being. Pergolas mark entrances into gardens and are sometimes paved with flagging and featured in our gardens as tea-houses.

My Day By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, D. C.—Still in Washington, but the floods are improving generally and the day has been, on the whole, a very peaceful one. Everything down along the Potomac is pretty well flooded, but they have decided to remove the dikes around the monuments.

A few friends for luncheon and at 2:30 I went down to the station to meet our eldest son who is on his way to Florida with the idea of joining his father on his fishing trip. Actually, he will now get there ahead of time and wait until my husband arrives. We had a few minutes together and caught up on all the family news.

I read an interesting article in April Harper's today. It is by Louis Adams and discusses Black Mountain College, which is apparently a rebel group of teachers and students. The article contains a quotation on what education should mean to students.

Colleges, it says, should turn out people "who will be eternally modern, and as such, distinguished not by what they will know, but by what they will do with what they will know; and who will know and feel that life is essentially not competitive, but calls for co-operation everywhere, and that, lest humanity perish, men must cease spending most of their energy scheming how to harm one another and begin looking toward a goal, toward something they wish to become and make of the world."

That seems to me one of the best statements I have ever seen on the aims of education. I know nothing about Black Mountain College but if any type of education can give its students a real understanding such as this, we will have made a stride in solving the problems of the present day, which, so far, our education does not seem to fit us to do.

I think the college from which the rebel group broke away has cause to be proud of itself. Any college which breeds mental virility, even if it creates a difference of opinion, may be proud of its achievement, for all despotism is based on education which holds people to a definite pattern and crushes individuality.

Warner Martin, Lee Ashcraft, Hal Hentz, Walter Hill, Fred Patterson, William King, Frank Fair, Hoyt Simpson, Misses Frances Morgan, Sara McKinney, Mary Mann, Mamie Williams, Darlene Moon, Elizabeth Ivey, Lucy Marvin Adams; on the industrial committee are Mrs. W. H. Alexander, chairman; Mesdames C. H. Aikens, G. W. Crickmay, Lila Ellis, Frances Eskew, Eula Harris, Emmett Quince, Louise A. Poole, Foster Spain, Helen Douglas Mankin, Misses Mary Barker, Inez Davis, Dick Scandrett, Orgia Skinner.

Mrs. Charles Winship chose the following to assist her with decoration and maintenance of 37 Auburn avenue: Mesdames Frank Berry, George Sheffield, Robert Edmond, Charles Hurt, Fred W. Cole Jr., William H. Kiser Jr., W. S. McLarin Jr., and Miss Virginia Pairo. New members added to the membership committee include Mesdames C. F. von Herrmann, W. W. Perrin, J. J. Harvey, Tom Crenshaw, I. L. James, N. H. Elder, Miss Marjorie Helvenston.

Mr. M. E. Water Thompson is chairman of the nominating committee, which includes Mesdames Bond Almond, Philip Graves, Charles Hoke, W. W. Alexander, Charles T. Winship, Miss Reggie Sue Daniel, The new publicity committee, with Mrs. L. J. Hollister, chairman, is Mesdames James E. Boyd, Dupont Murphy, Ronald Pentecost, E. C. Strummer, Miss Naomi Myers. On the residence committee with Mrs. Anita S. Armstrong are Mesdames W. H. Flowers, Emmett Quinn, Frank West, Joseph L. Hodgson, Edwin Romberg.

The world fellowship committee at present is made up of Mesdames Boone Bowen, Lloyd Chapin, Fraser Durrett and Mrs. Gosnell, chairman. Mrs. Clayton Callaway and Mrs. John J. Egan represent the Y. W. C. A. on the Christian council; Mrs. E. Marvin Underwood is chairman of the committee on colored work; Mrs. W. C. Goodpasture, chairman of health education; Mrs. Julian Robinson, hospitality; Mrs. Walker Van Nostrand, leisure-time activities; Mrs. W. M. Byrd, personal; Mrs. Karl Bowman, public affairs. Other committee members will be announced later.

DeKalb Supply Company Opens New Millwork Plant

EXPERT AID GIVEN
TO HOME BUILDERSConcern Now Offers Full Line of Bird's Neponset Building Products.

"More people in the Atlanta and Decatur sections are building homes now than in many years," declares Mrs. B. F. Fariss, secretary-treasurer of the DeKalb Supply Company, 912 Sycamore street, Decatur.

"Better homes are being built," Mrs. Fariss adds, "and while many are availing themselves of the Federal Housing Administration loans, we find that a confidence in the future has caused many to go ahead now with home-building plans, using their own funds for this purpose."

"It is a fine thing for a young couple to build a home, planned just as they would like it to be, and to rear their children under the sacred and happy influences of their own home. It develops a feeling of security and makes better men and women, who will be more closely and more keenly interested in the affairs of their community and nation."

The DeKalb Supply Company is well equipped to arrange every detail of home building. A large mill has just been completed, in which is installed the most modern wood-working machinery, making all kinds of cabinets, frames and special designs in millwork to meet the individual requirements of homes and buildings of all kinds.

Only the best quality materials are sold by the DeKalb Supply Company. Mrs. Fariss asserts, assuring home builders at all times of complete satisfaction in building materials bought from this concern.

In keeping with this policy, she states, a complete line of Bird Neponset building products, including the famous Neponset roofing, recently has been placed in stock. "The absolute dependability of Bird Neponset products," she asserts, "has been well established ever since Bird & Son, Inc., the makers, entered the market in 1925."

Davis points, made by the H. B. Davis Company of Baltimore, constitute another quality product sold by the DeKalb Supply Company. The company's 38 years of experience in paint-making, it is asserted, assures a quality paint which will give a better and more durable paint job than the average. Davis paints are said to be 100 per cent pure, manufactured from the finest ingredients obtainable, and says J. L. Bond, president of the DeKalb Supply Company, "never hesitate to recommend it for all paint jobs, because our customers always have been satisfied with the years of durable service these paints provide."

The DeKalb Supply Company offers practical suggestions for those desiring to build and a helpful service, such as assisting in arranging an FHA loan, if desired, making free estimates on cost, supplying the best quality building materials and supervising the construction.

"Our 50 per cent increase in business over this time last year," says Mrs. Fariss, "indicates the increased interest shown in home ownership."

'WHISPERING' BANDITS
ROB BANK OF $2,900

MONTROSE, Mo., March 22.—(AP) Whispering bank robbers who held passersby at bay with a shotgun and worked systematically with an acetylene torch looted the Montrose Savings Bank of $2,900 here today.

Telephone lines to the western Missouri town were cut down. Three passersby, who were thrust into the vault, said they saw only one man but there apparently were "three or four" others, all talking in whispers.

Here is shown a front view of the beautifully appointed new home of the W. C. Denny Motors, Georgia distributors for Auburn, Cord and Duesenberg motor cars, at 240 Peachtree street.

Greater ease of access, in keeping with the rapidly increasing popularity of its cars, is provided in removal headquarters of the W. C. Denny Motors, distributors for Auburn, Cord and Duesenberg automobiles, from its former location at 449 West Peachtree street to handsome new quarters at 240 Peachtree street, almost in the heart of the downtown theater, hotel and shopping district.

Mr. Denny, president of the company which bears his name, is a figure well and widely known in automobile circles of Georgia, since he was the first in the state to enter the automobile business. He first entered the field in Athens in 1906, and thus served automobile owners approximately 27 years, during which he has introduced a number of high-priced automobiles.

Mr. Denny moved his business to Atlanta 15 years ago, and during the last four years has served as distributor for Auburn and Cord throughout the state, as well as for the Duesenberg, known as "The World's Finest Motor Car."

Of these, Mr. Denny states, the Cord at present is proving to be a sensation wherever it is shown, particularly because of its front-wheel drive, a distinct departure from conventional design and construction.

"The new Cord's front drive construction," he asserts, "comes as a result of a decade of continuous effort and testing, making possible a simplicity of design, a greater degree of riding comfort, and an entirely new kind of performance, obtainable in no other type of automobile. Its builders predict it will exert a pronounced influence upon the future offerings of the entire automotive industry."

The complete concealment of convertible seats, absence of running boards, independent suspension of front wheels, its retractable head lamps and its exceptionally low construction are other outstanding features of the new Cord.

The exclusive dual-ratio feature, Mr. Denny points out, continues to mark the record-breaking Auburn as one of the outstanding American cars.

"In the low ratio," he asserts, "you have the extra power, quick acceleration and hill-climbing ability of a low-gear car. Then, simply by turning a little lever on the steering wheel, you have the high ratio, giving increased smoothness, quietness and economy of a high-gear car. For example, you can drive at 60-mile-an-hour speed with only 40-mile-an-hour engine speed."

The Auburn super-charged speedster, Mr. Denny points out, has proved its sturdiness, precision engineering and durable construction by breaking no less than 70 official AAA speed records.

Mr. Denny invites the public to visit the company's spacious new quarters at 240 Peachtree street and to inspect these fine cars.

For the further advantage of the public, he states, the company maintains at all times a complete stock of used cars in a department adjoining the sales and display rooms.

Also for the convenience of Auburn, Cord and Duesenberg owners, a specially equipped service department is situated in the same building, with an entrance to Harris street directly opposite the Capital City Club building.

CRICHTON OFFERS
TWO NEW COURSESCorrespondence Work in Pitmanic Shorthand and Vacation Study Urged.

Further development of its correspondence course in Pitmanic shorthand and a new and perfected vacation course were announced Saturday for Crichton's Business College by Miss E. Katherine Reid, its president.

Those who have a widespread interest in Crichton precedent is upheld.

"After years of tireless study," Miss Reid declares, "the Crichton method of Pitmanic shorthand has been perfected to such an extent that the average teacher or high school student can complete the entire course by mail in from three to four months of study. It already has been adopted by many leading high schools and colleges as the foundation for their business courses."

"The opportunities this course offers," she adds, "are numerous. One would be prepared, for example, with little business experience, to obtain a good salary as an executive secretary. No matter in what line of work one is now employed at present, a knowledge of shorthand will be helpful as a time saver and as a means of advancement."

"For teachers who wish to continue their careers as teachers, the completion of this course would enable them to instruct in shorthand as well as in their present subjects, for eventually, it seems, shorthand will be taught in almost all high schools and colleges."

The Crichton's Business College vacation course, Miss Reid points out, not only for those students who may wish to take the regular Crichton's secretarial course, but also for those who wish to take advantage of their vacations in this practical way.

"Particularly designed for the benefit of teachers, she states, "for those who wish to take advantage of their college in the fall, we recommend our regular shorthand course, which can be completed during the vacation months. For those entering college in the fall, we recommend our shorthand course, which can be completed during the vacation months. For those entering college in the fall, we recommend our shorthand course, which can be completed during the vacation months."

Coweta Shows Confidence
In 'Caterpillar' Equipment

"Caterpillar" grading equipment is shown here, drawn by one of the nine "Caterpillar" Diesel tractors the board of commissioners of Coweta county has purchased from Yancey Brothers, Inc., dealers, since April, 1933, for use in building and maintaining its road system.

The popularity of the economy and efficiency features of the "Caterpillar" Diesel tractor, as reflected in "repeat" orders, is clearly shown in its use in Coweta county, according to Goodloe Yancey, president of Yancey Brothers, Inc., 634 Whitehall street, S. W., dealers for this world-famous line of tractors, road machinery and combines.

For example, says Mr. Yancey, Coweta county's board of commissioners bought the first "Caterpillar" Diesel tractor sold in Georgia in April, 1933. "So thoroughly enthusiastic were they over its record of operation that before the year was closed they bought another," he states. "Two others were bought in 1934, three in 1935, and two thus far this year, making a total of nine 'Caterpillar' Diesels in use in Coweta county."

Coweta county, it is stated, is always in splendid financial condition, and many of its residents and business people are warm in their praise of the good management, the character and the business ability of its board of commissioners, which is composed of Joe G. Arnall, chairman; George H. A. Smith, clerk; Captain M. A. Copeland, warden; W. J. Coggins, James Carmichael, Henry Camp and Rhodes Johnson.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, during 1935, paid for $15,000,000 more of life insurance than in 1934, and its insurance income increased nearly $22,000,000, according to N. Baxter Maddox, executive head of the Baxter Maddox Agency, of that company, local general agent.

It also is noted, says Mr. Maddox, that the company's assets during 1935, showed an increase of approximately $23,000,000, and the surplus increased to more than $10,000,000—a truly remarkable year for the company, reflecting the rapid progress being made by its management.

The local agency, Mr. Maddox states, showed a 32 per cent increase in life insurance paid for during 1935 over the previous year, and for the first two months of 1936 the agency showed a 69 per cent increase in life insurance paid for. This increase, he asserts, was due largely to better business conditions and the public's increasing appreciation of the stability of life insurance companies.

It is very evident, he adds, that the most popular contract is the guaranteed income for life, or retirement income plan, which provides for disability, premature death or old age—three great hazards which must be faced by men and women. This contract, he points out, combines a very complete program of financial security involving systematic savings plus protection, which is self-completing in the event of total and permanent disability. Due to the increase in business, several new agents have been added, both in Atlanta and throughout the territory of the Baxter Maddox Agency. Clay W. Penick, a well-known insurance man, who for many years has been an outstanding producer, recently has been appointed supervisor of agents and is in charge of the complete educational course offered by the agency to its new men.

The following are members of the Baxter Maddox Agency: Lawson Kiser, Ed Gurr, Paul Byrley, Mrs. Emeline Neilson, Edgar Straus, Nicholas Andronovitch, G. W. Willis Jr., Albert Erwin Jr., George F. Weyman, Miss Carrie Lee Waddell, Paul H. Fraser, M. L. Harper and Mr. Penick, all of Atlanta; E. L. Hollis, of Crawfordville; George D. Bell, of Tignall, and D. O. Thurston, of Jackson.

Mr. Maddox welcomes inquiries from prospective agents in all parts of Atlanta and throughout its territory.

YOUTH, HOME FLOODED, COMES HERE, IS ROBBED

Because his home town of Pittsburgh was submerged under flood waters, C. F. Donahue, student at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va., decided not to go home for his spring vacation.

Taking down a map, Donahue and his companion, E. S. Stubbs, of Norfolk, were attending a dance on Peachtree street, someone stole Donahue's cap, overcoat and gloves.

Facing the trip back to V. P. I. without protection against the cold, he says now maybe it would have been better if he had gone to Pittsburgh and braved the flood waters.

Police are searching for the lost coat, cap and gloves.

New Lindbergh Case Information
Claimed by Hoffman Investigator

STATE PRISON FARM, RAIFORD, Fla., March 22.—(AP)—Robert W. Hicks, investigator in the Lindbergh kidnapping case for Governor Hoffman, of New Jersey, left here today for an unannounced destination after questioning two long-term prisoners.

With him Hicks carried an affidavit which he said "will satisfactorily clear up some interesting points in the Lindbergh case." The affidavit was signed by Samuel W. Garelick, who is serving a life term for the kidnapping of Dr. Santiago Claret, Cuban newspaper editor, at Miami in 1934. Hicks talked for six or eight hours in all with Harry Sidmore, here on a 40-year sentence, for jewel theft. The investigator described Sidmore as "reluctant" to tell of his activities.

It was learned from a reliable source Sidmore was questioned about any connection he might have had with a middle-western gang said to have planned extortion activities in an effort to share in ransom money paid for the return of baby Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr.

Sidmore, described as a "publicity seeker," was reported to have given no information of value.

Prison authorities quoted Hicks as saying he planned to be back in New Jersey in two or three days. Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted of the kidnap-murder of the Lindbergh baby, is sentenced to die March 31. The condemned man already has been questioned by the state's attorney, Governor Hoffman, who said valuable information must be in his hands before another stay will be ordered.

Garelick was questioned about a conversation he had in 1934 with Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jasfite" of the Lindbergh ransom negotiations.

The prisoner said Dr. Condon "told me he was sure he would get the man to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom." Hicks would not discuss the "interesting points" he said the affidavit would clear up.

In the 1934 interview at Miami, Garelick said he told Dr. Condon he "was already in enough trouble, and couldn't see why he wanted to get me into the Lindbergh case. I told him, 'You've already got the right man in the case.'"

Garelick quoted "Jasfite" as replying, "I'm not sure we have the right man. That's why I came down here to see you."

Bayonne, N. J., a former resident of Hicks was believed en route to Miami, where he said he would go after leaving here.

Products from Coweta county go all over the world. There are numerous cotton, woolen and blanket mills in the county, and Newman's thriving business successes are due largely to the tremendous farming crops of cotton, corn, hay, peanuts and peaches.

Many of Coweta county's farmers, it is pointed out, also are turning to livestock production.

Coweta county, it is stated, is always in splendid financial condition, and many of its residents and business people are warm in their praise of the good management, the character and the business ability of its board of commissioners, which is composed of Joe G.
